State mineral lease offer first to require tide survey

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The State of Mississippi for the first time, in seeking bids to lease state-owned waterbottoms for oil and gas exploration, is requiring the successful bidder to finance a marine survey to establish state and private ownership boundaries.

The proposed survey is in three Hancock County sections encompassing a portion of Jourdan River west of Hwy. 603 (Township Seven South, Range 15 West, Sections 34, 35 and 36).

John Kellis, State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Geology Mineral Lease Division chief, confirmed Wednesday morning in Jackson that the state for the first time is requiring a marine survey where possible state-waterbottoms are involved.

He noted the survey requirement was added based on public comments received several months ago in two Bay St. Louis hearings regarding a state request to change the Coastal Zone Wetlands Use Plan to allow oil and gas exploration in state-claimed lands in southern Hancock.

At the hearings, numerous landowners objected to the state's attempt to lease an undelineated 18,000-acre area which they felt infringed on their private property boundaries.

They also objected to oil and gas companies solely financing the surveys because as one citizen stated, "It would be like the fox guarding the hen house."

The state then decided not to change the plan to allow leasing until a marine survey was conducted by the state with funding provided by the Legislature.

Kellis also noted the same Jourdan River sections were advertised for leasing in The Sea Coast Echo during the summer, but the state cancelled that offer because of the public comments at the hearings.

"We cancelled our first advertisement because we didn't have all our ducks in a row, so to speak," the division chief stated.

The state estimates it owns 91.8 acres in the three sections, based in a legal advertisement appearing in this issue of the Echo.

Hancock Chancery Clerk records show that the state during the administration of Gov. Cliff Finch leased 95.44 acres in the three sections for three years to Saga Petroleum of Houston, Tex. in 1977 for $38,554 (about $407-per-acre).

A five-year lease is now sought by the state.

The successful bidder will be required to conduct the survey "in accordance with instructions issued by and under the State Bureau of Marine Resources" of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, the notice states.

Dr. Richard Leard, BMR director, said Wednesday afternoon in Long Beach that the bureau instructions will basically direct surveyors to utilize either one of two established tide recording methods to determine the mean high water mark and state-private ownership lines.

"Basically there are two accepted methods and only two or three experts in the marine mapping field," he stated.

Leard also reported the BMR has tidal data gathered downstream which could aid the surveyors.

"We have to oversee the survey to make sure the technical aspects are done correctly," he stated.

In addition, the successful bidder will be required to complete the survey prior to a State Oil and Gas Board authorization request, allowing exploration, the advertisement also lists.

Leard noted a public hearing is not necessary regarding the proposed leasing, as conducted regarding south Hancock leasing, because those three sections are outside the wetlands use area.

But he said those tracts are "above the point where the BMR knows a tidal influence exists, but the state feels there 'may or may not be state-owned property' in that area."

The only marine surveyed area in Mississippi thus far is also in Hancock and along a portion of Jourdan River within a state wetlands zone.

That disputed property, generally located west of the Jourdan and the Diamondhead area, is subject of an ongoing land ownership lawsuit primarily involving Cinque Bambini Partnership of Holly Bluff and the state.

Marine survey methods submitted by state and Cinque Bambini experts were both accepted by the Eighth Chancery Court District of Mississippi which includes Hancock.

The case, ruled in favor of the state, is now being appealed in Mississippi Supreme Court.

Supervisors OK $6 million outlet

Diamondhead mall construction start expected in 4 months

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Construction of a $6 million Diamondhead factory outlet mall is expected to begin in four to six months, a developer told the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at a Monday morning hearing.

Gene Yelverton of Jackson, the developer, said the factory outlet concept is relatively new, but based on its reception in other areas, will draw bargain-hunting tourists and employ an average of 200 people annually in sales positions.

The Diamondhead mall will be located on some 20 acres in the southwest quadrant of the community's I-10 interchange.

Yelverton said the acreage will be purchased for $18,000-per-acre both from the Gex family which owns property surrounding the interchange and Purcell, Inc., the prime developer of Diamondhead.

The approximate $360,000 property purchase is included in the overall mall cost.

Because of his involvement in the project, Walter Gex excused himself as supervisor board attorney during the hearing which began at 10 a.m. at the Courthouse in Bay St. Louis.

J.P. Compretta, Hancock's state representative and a Bay attorney, acted as board legal counsel for the hearing.

The purpose of the meeting, based on a legal advertisement in the Nov. 13 and 6 and Oct. 30 issues of The Sea Coast Echo, was to comply with the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to allow public comment regarding the county's intent to issue not more than $7 million in "industrial development notes and bonds of the Hancock County Economic and

New jail fails in recount

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Proponents for a new Hancock County jail lost ground yesterday when a recount of the ballots from the Nov. 8 election showed a final result of 59.6 percent approval.

Unofficial returns last week indicated 59.7 percent of the required 60 percent of voters favored the proposal.

Hancock County Citizens Criminal Justice Facility Committee Chairman Terrence Feeney officially requested a recount on Monday, Nov. 14.

The recount showed a total of 7,438 votes cast in the jail bond election, with 4,437 votes for and 3,001 against.

The recount included 24 ballots by affidavit from Waveland West precinct. Of those, nine were affirmative and 15 were negative.

The recount from other precincts resulted in a few minor changes, Gottschalk said, adding a vote or two in some and subtracting a few in others.

School board firm on opening date

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Teachers have apparently lost their battle to persuade the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees to begin school next year before September.

Monday, the board took no action in response to requests from several teachers to change the starting date back to late August.

Earlier this fall, the board agreed to move the 1984 starting date from mid-August to Sept. 4 due to usual hot weather conditions.

Because state law requires teachers to be in class with students at least one day in the month their contracts start, the September starting date means that teachers face a two-month period between paychecks next summer.

In September and again in October several teachers met with the board to ask it to reconsider its decision.

Trustee James Ginn was absent at October meeting, and Board President Walter Turcotte told the teachers he wanted all trustees present before their decision would be reconsidered.

Monday the teachers renewed their request.

Senior High faculty members Sandra Smith, Joan Thomas and Lynn Stechmann all stated that the delay would cause financial hardships.

Thomas noted that she is a single parent supporting three people.

"We were told to save," she said. "That would be fine, but I don't have anything to save."

"It wouldn't bother us if there were summer jobs for teachers," she added, "but there aren't. No one wants to hire us for three months."

Following the teachers' presentations in support of their request, Superintendent J. D. McCullough reviewed the legal requirements, the reasons for the board's decision to move the starting date forward and the effect the decision will have on teachers.

He noted that insurance coverage runs from Sept. 1 through Aug. 31 and assured the teachers and board there would be no lapse in teacher insurance.

A teacher who did not identify herself said, "In essence, what you're saying is that we're receiving all of our pay. What we're saying is that the way it's going to be issued to us, it will put us in the hole for the whole year."

Turcotte, after noting that the board made the decisions several months ago, said he would entertain a motion.

No motion was forthcoming, and Trustee Ginn moved and Trustee Betty Diboll seconded that the board go into executive session.

The reason stated for the executive session was to discuss personnel matters.

Agreement reached on port launch use

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The boat launch at the Port and Harbor in Anslay can now be used by fishermen to launch boats, according to Pat Toomey, Conservation officer.

Toomey said, "Problems arose with the installation of security at the facility. An agreement has been reached this week with the Port and Harbor Commission for fishermen to sign-in as they enter the facility, and sign-out when leaving."

"I do want to emphasize the port and harbor area is a Game Refuge, and no firearms are allowed in either vehicles or boats of persons using the ramp," Toomey added.

James DeBlanc, executive director of the Port and Harbor Commission, called for authorized personnel only to enter the facility. An agreement has been reached by the commission for fishermen to use the ramp of the facility, in order to reach other fishing areas.

Ronald Peterson, Hancock County

sheriff said, "Security is being handled by the sheriff's office around the clock, and we are following the guidelines set by the Port and Harbor Commission."

DeBlanc, Toomey, and Peterson reported receiving calls recently from fishermen about not being able to use the launch.

All three officials say hunting at the port and harbor is definitely out. Employees at Port and Harbor will be issued windbreak decals in the near future, and this should make it easier for workers entering or leaving the facility, DeBlanc indicated.

In other hunting matters, Toomey reported the fine for violators hunting on posted and restricted lands has been increased from $100 to $500 for those without a permit or written permission. The same increase in fines go also for hunting from public roads.

Toomey reminds deer hunters must wear orange vests or caps and this also goes for bow and arrow, as well as primitive weapons hunters.

GCRL research project funded at $162,953

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has received approval from the federal government for the continuation of work known as "Coastal Fisheries Monitoring and Assessment—Mississippi Coast," from Oct. 1, 1983 to Sept. 30, 1984.

Although the FY 1984 PL 86-309 allocation (for investigations designed to improve commercial fishing stocks) had not been approved by the Congress at press time, funds were made available under a continuing resolution for the National Marine Fisheries Service to fund PL 86-309 project activities into November. The current federal payment to the laboratory for these activities was $13,444.

Total projected costs for the year ending next September is $162,953, with the total federal share being $122,215 and the matching laboratory or state share being $40,738.

There are three separate jobs that make up this contract:

1) An assessment of adult finfish stocks in Mississippi Sound and adjacent waters with emphasis on spotted seatrout (speckled trout), red drum (redfish), striped mullet, and hardhead catfish.

2) Fisheries monitoring and assessment activities along a Biloxi Bay transect to collect and analyze environmental data and representatives of commercial species of marine shellfish (except oysters) and fishes monthly and to provide management agencies with current biological data needed for management decisions.

3) Oyster reef monitoring—assessment to collect and analyze data on the condition of oyster reefs in Mississippi waters, to determine the number of live oysters, marketable oysters, spawnable oysters, prevalence of diseases and predators, and to provide summary data monthly to the State Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR).

The first task outlined above is carried out by means of a monthly netting program in a study area composed of bayou, sound, and barrier island sampling sites. Some captured fish are tagged and released at the site, and representative fish are designated for laboratory analysis. Numerous types of data will be recorded to document the samples. Results of the collecting and tagging studies will be used to assure effective and economical experimental sampling designs for future adult assessment programs.

Dr. Robin M. Overstreet, head of the parasitology section, is in charge of this phase of the project. "These studies should provide information on growth, movement, relative abundance, and other biological aspects of the fish; some of this information will be published," states Overstreet.

The second task will be principally concerned with the juvenile populations growing in the nursery area of the Mississippi Coast. Using previously established procedures, personnel will capture representatives of commercial species of shellfish and fishes. In addition, environmental parameters will be measured with appropriate equipment.

Included in a priority list of commercial species that will be studied in detail are commercial shrimps (brown, white, and pink), blue crabs, Atlantic croaker, whiting, menhaden, striped mullet, spotted seatrout, white seatrout, spot, butterfish, silver eel, sea catfish, and squid.

Laboratory personnel have previously sampled stations along three transects, or lines, extending from open Gulf water, across Mississippi Sound, and up into each major estuarine system across the Coast. Data analysis after eight years of sampling the Mississippi sound area indicated that the Biloxi Bay transect alone would be adequate for the continuation of the long-term data base that has been established.

William J. Demoran, head of the fishery management section, is director of the oyster reef monitoring program which is the third task to be accomplished by this project.

This work involves studies of oysters on five reefs in open, approved waters across the Coast of the state, random sampling, and the measurement of environmental parameters. Information from each reef is turned over to the BMR.

Dr. Thomas D. McIlwain, assistant director for fisheries research and management at the laboratory, is responsible for administration of this contract. He is assisted by Richard Waller, project leader for the program concerned with juvenile species.

Approximately 17 members of the GCRL technical staff are scheduled to participate in some phase of this extensive project. In addition, a number of supporting staff members such as boat vessel operators, clerical, secretarial, and data processing personnel will contribute to this project.

Why We Are Building A New Hospital...

The construction of a new hospital for Hancock County has been much in the news lately. In order to clarify many points and questions being asked by the public, the Hancock

General Hospital Board of Trustees would like to take this means to answer some of these questions.

Did You Know

1. Hancock General Hospital was built in 1960 as a 36-bed facility, with support services for those 36 beds. In 1964, 20 additional beds were added, but no provisions were made to expand the support services.

2. The present facility utilizes 29,700 square feet of space, but current services and needed additional services require at least 65,000 square feet of space.

3. At the present facility, there is a traffic problem due to a lack of improvements to Dunbar Avenue and the traffic from the elementary school across the street. The shopping center at Dunbar Avenue and Highway 90 has created additional traffic problems.

4. During Hurricane Camille in 1969, Hancock General did not receive any flood waters, but became inaccessible due to flood waters filling lowlying areas surrounding the hospital and blocking access roads.

5. According to a building evaluation study done in 1981 by Nix, Mann and Associates, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia, by request of Hospital Corporation of America, the electrical systems and equipment at Hancock General were found to be in relatively poor condition. Repair and updating would be difficult in many instances due to inaccessibility of parts and ceilings.

6. The mechanical systems in the present building, according to the same study, are 17-23 years old, approaching or exceeding the normal life expectancy of most of the equipment. It is not unreasonable to have major expenditures to replace or make major repairs to the equipment within the next few years.

7. According to an economic profile of Hancock County prepared by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, population in the County is estimated to increase from 24,592 to 32,000, or 18%, by 1990. Bay St. Louis, with a present population of 7,850, will see an estimated 20% increase to 9,550. Waveland, with 4,223 now, will increase to approximately 6,000, or 30%. Therefore, a new facility should be located in the most heavily populated geographical area, which is the twin cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

8. Renovation of the present building would take two years, during which time the hospital could not be operational due to a disruption of services and personnel. There would also be no improvement in flow patterns, and the old systems would be difficult to change due to the present layout, i.e., use of the main corridor for visitors, emergency equipment, post surgery and delivery patients, location of the nursery, etc.

9. In order to correct the deficiencies in the present building, it would cost approximately $4.5 million, while the addition of 30,000 square feet would cost another $4.5 million, and these figures do not include the cost of new equipment, estimated at $4 million, or the financing cost itself.

CONCLUSION:

Therefore, a new hospital facility is necessary according to the following major reasons:

A. The cost of upgrading the present facility.

B. The difficulty of adding to the existing structure.

C. The age of the original building and systems.

D. The potential benefits of relocating the hospital on a site which would be closer to the geographically most populated areas of the members of the community which it serves.

E. The lack of disruption of health care services during construction and renovation.

Performing artists directory deadline is tomorrow

In an effort to respond to the needs of sponsors across the state for information on Mississippi-based performing artists and groups available for touring, the Mississippi Arts Commission is updating its annual Directory of Performing Arts Touring Resources. Also included in the 1984-85 Directory will be technicians, stage designers, choreographers, directors, etc.

This publication is a compendium of information — a "Yellow Pages" of performing arts resources in Mississippi. It is not an endorsement of artistic quality by the commission, but rather is intended to serve as a resource tool for sponsors to use in planning their performing arts programs.

Any individual or group interested in being listed in the directory should apply to the Mississippi Arts Commission no later than Nov. 18, 1983. This deadline has been established in order to get the directory out to potential sponsors by Jan. 1, 1984 so that it may be used in planning the upcoming 1984-85 season. To obtain an application form or to receive additional information, please contact the Mississippi Arts Commission, P.O. Box 1341, Jackson, MS 39206, 601/354-7336.

'Owl And The Pussy Cat' to open at Minacapelli's

Stage Rights production of 'Owl and the Pussy Cat' opens Friday at Minacapelli's Dinner Theatre in Slidell.

A successful New York play 'Owl and the Pussy Cat' has also been made into a hilarious movie with George Segal and Barbara Streisand. Elliott Keener directs this true-to-life heart-warming comedy about Felix Sherman, played by Matt Borel, and Jessica Beltz as Doris Wheeler. Wilgus? Washington? Well, you'll see. Beltz comes to New Orleans from Ohio where she was teaching in a professional actor training program at Wright State University. She now teaches acting and voice and diction at Tulane University. Beltz has acted roles in theatres all over the country.

Borel is certainly no stranger, having appeared at Minacapelli's in 'Boeing Boeing' in 1981, in 'Norman Conquests' and in many commercials.

Perhaps Borel is best-known for his character of the apprentice in a locally produced

TV show called The Baker.

As a matter of fact, Borel and Keener really got to know each other from their work together on The Baker.

The 'Owl and the Pussy Cat' takes place in San Francisco.

Felix is a very intellectual and unsuccessful writer keeping body and soul together by working in a book store.

Doris is an emotional and unsuccessful actress and model earning her living as a lady of the evening.

This unlikely duo get together when Felix, while spying on Doris with binoculars reports her nefarious dealing to her landlord at 2 a.m. in the morning.

As a result, Doris is thrown out of her apartment in the middle of the night. Doris finds out it was Felix who snitched on her so she moves in on him. What follows is one of the funniest and strangest love stories ever written.

'Owl and the Pussy Cat' runs Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday matinees from Nov. 18 through Dec. 18.

For reservations call New Orleans 888-7000 or Slidell 642-9671.

Minacapelli's is looking for individuals interested in directing future productions. For further information call 643-9671.

Christmas club pays

$76,551

The local economic picture should reflect an input of some $76,551 this week, according to People's Federal Savings and Loan Association President David A. Treutel.

"That is the amount of money that was mailed out to our Christmas Club members. Christmas Club customers prefer to 'prepay' their Christmas instead of accumulating debts into the New Year," Treutel added.

"All indications point to a more profitable year's end for merchants—and part of this is fueled by the Christmas clubs which have proven to be so successful for our customers over the years," the financial executive feels.

Autistic Children Society schedules annual conference

The Mississippi Society for Autistic Children will hold its sixth meeting and Conference Dec. 9-10 at Hardy Hall on the Gulf Park Campus of the University of Southern Mississippi at Long Beach.

Co-sponsoring the event are the Gulf Coast and Mississippi (at-large) chapters of the National Society for Children and Adults with Autism (NSAC).

A number of distinguished professionals from the fields of special education, speech and hearing, autism and mental retardation will serve as presenters.

Speakers during the program sessions will include Dr. Paul Cotten, director, Ellisville State School; Dr. James Whorton, director, Division of Special Education, USM; Dr. Doris Bradley, director, Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences, USM; and Dr. Mollie Wallick, Department of Psychiatry, Louisiana State University, School of Medicine.

A parent-professional panel will conclude the conference on Saturday.

Continuing education units will be arranged through the Mississippi Speech and Hearing Association and the Mississippi State Department of Education.

For registration information contact: Mississippi Chapter-NSAC, P.O. Box 54092, Pearl, MS 39208, or Gulf Coast Chapter-NSAC, c/o Ron Bishop, 122 N. Burke Ave., Long Beach, MS 39560.

Autism is a severe neurological disorder which affects an estimated 3 to 4 thousand Mississippi children and adults. Onset of the disorder normally comes prior to 30 months of age.

Delayed or deviant speech and language development, bizarre, perseverative or repetitive behavior and inability to relate well socially to others are major criteria in the diagnosis of autism.

Work by local artist featured at library

Twenty original oil paintings by Bay St. Louis artist Susan Plessala are being featured throughout November in a one-woman show at the Pass Christian Public Library.

Primarily self-taught, Plessala's work includes both realistic and abstract art.

In June the artist participated in a three-man exhibit at the Biloxi Cultural Center.

Her work was also exhibited in a juried show of the Slidell Art League and earned a third-place ribbon in the 1982 Hattiesburg Art Association Show.

The paintings in the library exhibit are the product of two years' work and include portraits, still lifes and abstracts.

The library, located at 111 Hiern Avenue directly behind Pass Christian City Hall, is open to the public from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and from 9:30 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Preparations are underway for annual Thanksgiving Services Monday night.

The ecumenical service, sponsored by the ministers of Bay St. Louis-Waveland and the Hancock County Emergency-Relief Fund, will be at First Assembly of God, Arnold Street, Waveland.

We are hoping there will be a large attendance at these services of thanksgiving.

We, as Americans, have many things to express our thanks about, and this will be a good opportunity.

Many of the ministers of the area will participate in the services.

We hope to see you there.

The Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253 will hold a dedication and 40th anniversary on Saturday.

Over the years we have known many of the charter members of this organization which formed in 1943.

It should be a large celebration, and we are hoping many of the members and families will be there.

With Thanksgiving next Thursday, Christmas is not too far away.

The Sea Coast Echo again this year will publish letters from youngsters to Santa.

Special arrangements have been made with the post office in Bay St. Louis to send the letters to the Echo before being forwarded to Santa.

If you would like to have a Letter to Santa published, send it to Santa Claus, in care of The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Small-business Angle

WASTE DISPOSAL

Hazardous waste is not usually associated with small businesses, but Congress is about to change that.

In an attempt to close loopholes in the country's hazardous waste laws, the House has developed the Hazardous Waste Control and Enforcement Act of 1983. The concept behind the bill is excellent: developing a consistent national policy for hazardous-waste management and clarifying for the Environmental Protection Agency the intent of laws previously passed by Congress.

Small-business owners, like their neighbors and customers, support the continuing cleanup of our air and water. But the new legislation will cause problems for many small businesses. Some 1.4 million of them will be newly covered by the House bill. That is because present law exempts businesses which generate less than 1,000 kilograms (about 2,200 pounds) a month of all but acutely hazardous waste.

The new House bill would reduce that exemption to 25 kg. a month. It would encompass a wide variety of businesses: local dry cleaners and gas stations, electroplaters, small machine shops, motels, apartment units, and printing companies to name a few. The National Federation of Independent Business, in testimony before a House Small Business subcommittee, said that its half million members have no idea that they might be generating hazardous waste.

After the hearing, Rep. Jack Hiller, R-Ind., found fault with the bill saying that it would be impossible in 90 days to notify more than a million small businesses that "they are generating hazardous wastes, what those wastes are, that they have to provide notification, and how to do it properly in order to be in compliance with the law." Hiller joined joined Reps. Charlie Stenholm, D-Texas, Norman Lent, R-N.Y., and Richard Shelby, D-Ala., in amending the legislation to allow two years to phase in the lower generator exemption.

Supporters of the new law said tighter restrictions are necessary because the Environmental Protection Agency needs to know where these wastes are going and waste haulers need to know what they're transporting. Opponents argued that the legislation will make small-business owners subject to provisions that could hold them liable in lawsuits if a transporter disposes of waste improperly.

An EPA representative further weakened the argument for a 25 kg. exemption. He testified that "regulating wastes generated at levels between 0 kg. and 100 kg. per month would bring under federal control only an additional .23 percent of the total amount of hazardous waste generated."

The Senate version of the legislation allows a higher exemption level: 100 kg. According to groups watching the legislation, the House-Senate conference, expected sometime this year, unfortunately is likely to go with the House limit unless there is a significant volume of comment to senators from their constituents.

Another problem with the new legislation is the lack of adequate sites to accommodate the additional waste which would have to be handled. During the subcommittee hearing, small-business representatives from several states said that approved dump sites are so remote that transportation costs would be prohibitive — especially since many landfills will no longer be useable under the new bill. A representative from Florida added that haulers don't seem to be interested in small-business customers because their volume is too small.

Considering the small amount of waste involved, the House and Senate would do well to set the exemption at 100 kg. until a new EPA study of small generators is concluded. The EPA hopes to answer numerous questions with this study.

They especially want to know what waste-management options are available to small-quantity generators and what the economic impact will be. EPA is also beginning to study state laws and programs to come up with the best possible regulatory program for small businesses.

In the meantime, owners of small businesses should be aware of the pending changes in the law and survey their disposal procedures to insure compliance with present and future law.

(Wilson S. Johnson is chairman of the board of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Supervisors' California junket questioned; County Home closing criticized

Nov. 16, 1983
Letters to the Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

This letter concerns the actions of our recently elected Board of County Supervisors which is made up of Dolph Kellar, president; Jimmy Trivira, Sam Pernicaro, Bert Courge, and Roger Dale Ladner.

I noticed that this august body of politicians shrewdly timed their decision to evict the elderly poor at the County Home until after the elections.

At no time in their campaigns did they bring up the need for office space nor did they tell who the victims would be to obtain that space.

Someone challenged Dolph Kellar to make public the details of how these evicted people would be cared for in the future. We haven't heard from him.

I would like to ask the supervisors if it is a rumor or a fact that the county will pay $60,000 a year to a mobile medic company. If so, who will benefit from these services?

Another rumor or fact is that two supervisors recently made a trip to California to investigate a computer system. Please tell us why such a trip was necessary when most companies will send representatives to explain their products.

How much county money was used for this fact finding trip — and who made the trip?

Please! Tell us voters what you are doing so that you can get our opinions. You are elected servants — don't you think you should let us know how our money is being spent? So far we are not pleased with your performance!

Donna Boughman

The People's Business

The Mississippi Economic Council has expressed its concern as to the status of the state's industrial bonds statutes and called upon the Governor and the Legislature to take any necessary steps to protect the economic development program.

Charles Sewell, a Jackson bank executive and chairman of the Council, said questions about the state's laws which permit tax exemptions for industries locating or expanding facilities in the state with financing by local government bonds were raised after the state Supreme Court recently upheld a decision by Lamar County supervisors to void a tax exemption earlier granted to a bottling company.

The court's decision, Sewell said, may make it necessary to revise or rewrite state laws authorizing such exemptions. Mississippi pioneered the use of government bonds and tax exemptions for industrial development purposes. Under the law, manufacturers may lease government-owned lands and buildings, which are tax exempt, in the interest of creating new jobs in a community.

"A study by the Council within recent years indicated that economic advantages resulting from the incentive program for new industries far outweigh any loss of tax revenues," Sewell said. "Creation of new jobs, tax revenues generated as a result of those jobs, and other economic benefits of industrialization more than offset any tax revenues lost under the exemption law. Any ambiguity in the application of tax exemptions could hinder both our dealings with industrial prospects and development of existing industry."

Sewell said the Council supports the use of industrial bonds for economic development of the local communities and added, "We are calling upon the Governor and the Legislature to take any necessary steps to assure continuation of this program which has played a major role in the state's economic advancement."

Americans have been stunned in recent weeks as 269 passengers on board a Korean airliner were murdered in an attack by the Soviet Union, more than 200 American servicemen were killed in a bombing in Beirut, Lebanon, and others lost their lives in fighting on the small island of Grenada in the Caribbean. Relations with the Soviet Union are at a severe low, and there are other trouble spots throughout the world that are causing us grave concern.

Memories, painful memories, of Vietnam and Korea come to mind as we see our military forces becoming more and more involved in areas of conflict where the chances for peaceful solution are remote. We simply cannot afford to go all over the world defending every nation, guaranteeing boundary lines and underwriting economies.

The commitment of American troops in a hostile situation on foreign territory is a serious thing indeed and involves tremendous risk. In 1954 I spoke on the floor of the Senate calling for the removal of 44 Air Force mechanics which has been sent to Vietnam. I warned my colleagues then that we were taking steps that could lead our men directly into combat, that soon we might have to fight or run. In that same speech, I warned that for the good they might do, the risk was too great.

Of course, I do not claim to be any great prophet, but we all know what happened later in Vietnam. By April, 1969, 543,000 Americans were involved in fighting in Vietnam. Over 47,000 U.S. military people lost their lives in Vietnam, and another 10,000 noncombat deaths occurred.

Even before the fighting in Vietnam ended, I set to work to secure passage of legislation which would clarify the constitutional responsibility of Congress to specifically approve or disapprove involvement of U.S. forces in foreign conflicts. Throughout our involvement in Vietnam, it bothered me greatly that Americans were losing their lives in combat in a war which had not been declared by the Congress.

The United States Constitution clearly states that the Congress shall have the power to declare war, but we never faced up to the question in the Vietnam conflict. The War Powers Act passed in 1972 over the veto of the President was

WHAT IS ANGINA?

Angina, or angina pectoris, is a recurring tightness or pain in the chest experienced when the heart muscle is not receiving an adequate blood supply. Angina usually occurs when the heart is called on to do more work such as during exercise, after a big meal, or when excited. Angina is not a heart attack, but both conditions have the same underlying cause — hardening of the arteries. A diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol may help reduce the risk of developing angina. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

American Heart Association
WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

The Stennis report

intended to prevent such an occurrence in the future.

Regardless of the serious purposes of the President in committing our troops in other nations, it is the duty of the members of Congress as the elected representatives of the people to either declare war when American troops are committed to combat or to remove them promptly from the area of conflict when Congress does not declare war or approve.

Without question, the framers of the Constitution intended to place power to declare war in the hands of the elected officials who had the most direct contact with the people.

Members of the House of Representatives and the Senate have an opportunity to personally know many of the people in their districts and states. They meet the people face-to-face on the streets of their hometowns. If American troops are to be committed to combat, the members of Congress are obviously in the best position to make that commitment and to take the responsibility. We are not talking about a question of power, we are talking about the question of responsibility for such a serious step.

We need to work together to reach a consensus on where our involvement is warranted, and avoid those situations where our involvement would constitute a waste of our manpower and resources.

Our involvement in Grenada represents an example of how we can be effective in preventing more serious problems in the future. This small island in the Caribbean could have fallen, perhaps permanently into the hands of forces which would have posed a serious threat to the United States and the free people of that region had we not acted immediately to stabilize the situation.

Central America is another region where there are trouble spots which cannot be ignored by the United States. Because of our close proximity to those nations, we are obviously affected by what happens to them. Biloxi, Miss., is closer to the capitol of El Salvador than it is to Washington, D.C.

Ceremonies to dedicate Bay Library Arboretum

A dedication ceremony will be conducted Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. to recognize designation of the Bay St. Louis Library Memorial Garden as an arboretum.

The Garden Clubs of Mississippi, Inc. began sponsorship of a Statewide System of Arboretums in 1976.

Since that time, 20 sites throughout the state have qualified for this honor.

Others are located on college campuses, in public parks and in privately owned gardens. The Bay St. Louis Arboretum is the first in the state to be located on library grounds.

Through the efforts of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, 25 trees and other plants have been labeled with common and botanical names and volunteers and city crews have been working to improve the appearance of the grounds.

The purpose of the arboretum is to increase public awareness of living plants.

The Hancock County Library System encourages the public to visit the arboretum which will serve as an ecological classroom for present and future generations.

Other plants will be added as funds are available and a brochure will be published early next year to be given to visitors.

The public is invited to the Tuesday afternoon ceremony at the entrance of the headquarters library on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

Other arboretums in the statewide system include: Main Campus Circle, Mississippi Southern University, Hattiesburg; Waterways Experiment Station, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Vicksburg; Gloster Arboretum, Gloster; Percy Quinn State Park, McComb; National Military Cemetery, Vicksburg; and Washington County Courthouse Grounds, Greenville.

Also, Fannie Arnold Park, Greenville; Governor's Mansion Grounds, Jackson; The Quadrangle, Mississippi College, Clinton; Mississippi University for Women Campus, Columbus; William Faulkner Memorial Arboretum, Oxford; and Montrose Memorial Arboretum, Holly Springs.

And, Yazoo Arboretum at Camp Swayze, Yazoo City; Kamper Park, Hattiesburg; Mynelle Gardens Arboretum, Jackson; LaFlore Trail and Arboretum, at Greenwood, 4-21-83; Arboretum at Beauvoir, Biloxi, 4-24-83; Wister Gardens Arboretum, Belzoni, June 2, 1983; and Tupelo Arboretum, Tupelo, June 28, 1983.

Hancock libraries awarded funds for computer project

The Hancock Library System has received federal Library Services and Construction Act funds through the Mississippi Library Commission to initiate a computer-assisted skills project, according to David Woodburn of Jackson, MLC director.

The computer-assisted skills (COMPASS) project will utilize computer hardware and educational courseware that will allow people of all ages and educational levels to develop or improve reading, writing, spelling, and arithmetic skills.

During the first phase of the project, the library will attempt to reach out-of-school adults and young people who need to develop these skills to pass the General Education Development test, or get back into school.

The second phase of the project will allow the general public to develop basic skills as well as prepare for college entrance examinations, learn or improve typing skills, learn speed reading, study foreign languages, or become computer literate.

"We were pleased to receive funding for the Compass Project and are excited about being able to offer these services to Hancock Countians," said Prima Wusnack, Hancock Library System director.

"We hope to begin Phase I of the project on the project on a trial basis in December," she added.

Becky Mitchum will serve as Compass Project coordinator and Francis McDonald, professor of computer science, Delgado College, will be consultant for the program.

Total costs for initiating the project will be approximately $18,000, including $8,410 in federal funds, according to Wusnack, who said the full-scale project will eventually be offered at both the headquarters library in Bay St. Louis and the Waveland Library.

session was a discussion of 'personnel matters.'

When the board returned to regular session some ten minutes later, Turcotte announced that no negative or positive action had been taken in executive session, and the teachers' delegation left the meeting.

In other business, the board approved Chapter I amendments to allow the expansion of school computer programs.

At McCullough's recommendation, the board agreed to increase project funding by $18,791.

Funding for the project, now about $168,000, comes from federal monies, and the increase will not cost the school district.

Chapter I programs are designed to improve students' math and reading skills.

The amendment will allow the addition of one terminal in Waveland and one at North Bay.

Waveland now has five terminals, North Bay has eight.

The increase will also provide for a computer aide at North Bay Elementary and one at Bay Catholic Elementary School. Waveland now has an aide.

Telephones will be installed at each computer center to allow the schools to contact centers in Houston, TX and in California when computer assistance is needed.

The board approved the hiring of Rita Koenig at North Bay and Treva Thornton at Bay Catholic as computer aides for the Chapter I project.

Also on Monday, the board approved: renewal of a contract with Pitco Incorporated for maintenance work on air-conditioners and other equipment at Bay Senior High School;

transfer of $1,570.79 from a savings account designated 'other special revenue' to the operating budget;

refinishing of the high school gymnasium floor at a cost of $450; and attendance at the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools meeting in New Orleans, La., Dec. 11-14 for several administrators.

The board also approved field trips for:

a French class to attend an opera in New Orleans;

a YMCA Youth Legislature trip to Jackson;

an honors English class to a Shakespeare play in New Orleans; and earth-space science classes to visit Jackson County planetarium.

Superintendent McCullough advised that students and faculty will be dismissed at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 23 for the Nov. 24-25 Thanksgiving holiday.

Board member James Guinn commended the administration for the recent audit report, and asked that audit exceptions be addressed at the next board meeting.

ETV Brief

HISTORY OF MAN

Richard Leakey hosts a major five-part series, "The Making of Mankind," at 8 p.m., Thursdays, beginning Nov. 24, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Leakey has been visiting archaeological sites ever since he was in his cradle. He was taken on numerous field expeditions in Kenya and Tanzania by his world-famous parents, Louis and Mary Leakey. Eventually he was drawn into full-time exploration, shunning a formal education in science.

The question facing "The Making of Mankind" is "how and why did man become the most successful, powerful and dangerous animal on earth?"

To seek the answer, Leakey traces the origin of the human species. His quest has taken his team and a BBC crew to more than 15 countries all over the world to piece together a vast and complex detective story of how man became what he is.

The series reflects Leakey's own views on the development of man based on his research into the fossil evidence that man's distant ancestors left behind.

Bay Legion auxiliary distributes 'Flag Code' pamphlet to schools

In connection with its Americanism program Clement R. Bontemps Unit 139 of the American Legion Auxiliary has introduced into the schools a pamphlet titled 'The Flag Code.'

This pamphlet is designed to teach the students more about the flag. It teaches the proper display of the flag and gives pointers on what should not be done with the flag.

Students may learn the correct way to salute the flag during the National Anthem and at other times. They can also learn the pledge to the flag, the history of the flag, The Stars Spangled Banner and The American Creed.

"We hope that the schools will use these pamphlets and that the parents will read them at home and help the students to understand the meaning," said Lou Wilkerson, Americanism chairman.

Unit 139 has distributed more than 3,000 of these pamphlets, Wilkerson said.

Every child in every school grades one through 12 in Bay St. Louis has been given one of the pamphlets.

During the coming months the auxiliary will be promoting Americanism in many ways.

A 'Certificate of Participation' will be presented to businesses and industries who fly the American Flag on a regular basis. There will be one certificate presented each month and a picture of the business will be placed in the Unit scrapbook, Wilkerson explained.

The Unit will also sponsor an essay contest in the schools in Bay St. Louis. The title of the essay will be 'The Thing That Makes America Great.'

There will be three classes on the local level; Class I, grades six through eight; Class II, grades nine through 12; Class III, grades three through five. On the state level only Classes I and II will compete.

Rules for the essay contest will be delivered to the schools after Jan. 1.

"The auxiliary recognizes the fact that the youth of today are the future of America. Pride in the greatest country in the world is the only way to keep it both great and free for the future," Wilkerson stated.

BIRD VARIETY

Although birds and animals evolved on nearly identical time schedules, there are more than twice as many different species of birds than animals alive today, reports National Wildlife magazine. At last count, there were over 8,700 species of birds, ranging in size from the condor to the tiny hummingbird, compared to 4,000 species of mammals.

The lunch hour activities in Dolan Hall's instructor lounge here quickly changed recently, from the normal hubbub to the all too-real scene of three men trying desperately to save the life of Phillip White of Gulfport, an avionics communications instructor with the base's 3380th Technical Training Group.

White, who had just seconds before been joking with his co-workers, stood in front of his chair. "Hey Guys," were White's last words as he lay on the floor.

"It was obvious he was having a hard time breathing, and I knew he'd had a previous heart attack," said MSgt. Richard Welsh, a technical writer with the 3380th. "I was about 10 feet away from White and before I could get to him, J. J. (SSgt. John Milano) was already on his chest. He reacted immediately."

Sergeant Milano, an airborne command post instructor with the group, was the first to react when White hit the floor. He began cardio pulmonary resuscitation immediately, almost instinctively, with no hesitation.

TSgt. Darrell Balsinger, another avionics communications instructor, started to call an ambulance when someone else grabbed the phone. "I just saw someone jump down working on White's chest and no one was on his head, to give pulmonary resuscitation," said Sergeant Balsinger. "I didn't know who was next to me. I just saw the hands pumping. I didn't realize it was J. J. until after it was all over."

The instructors lounge had cleared except for the men applying CPR to save White's life.

Sergeant Welsh was at his feet, Milano at his chest giving cardiovascular resuscitation, Balsinger and White's head applying mouth-to-mouth pulmonary resuscitation and Charles A. Jeffrey, also an airborne communications instructor, was helping to loosen clothing.

I told Balsinger to check his throat because I knew White had taken one bite of his sandwich," said Welsh. "I raised his feet and J. J. kept pumping at his chest."

"When I first started giving him air it felt like something was blocking his air passage," said Balsinger. Jeffrey and Balsinger worked to clear anything blocking White's throat and loosened his clothing.

"I remember yelling that his throat must be blocked and reminding Milano to count out the rhythm," said Welsh.

"For a while his chest was raising and everything seemed all right," said Balsinger.

About five minutes into the CPR, White's pulse seemed to disappear but Jeffrey found a slight pulse at his neck. Welsh said during that time he could feel White's leg muscles become rigid.

"Then he let out a big sigh. It seemed like the last gasp," said Welsh. "We all hesitated and looked at each other, as White's color became purple. Then I told them to keep going."

The emergency medical team arrived around 10 minutes after CPR was started. "I had no sense of time," said Welsh. "I knew J. J. was tired when the EMT team arrived because I remember him looking up and he looked beat. Capt. (Dr.) Mel Robinson, emergency doctor, told J. J. to keep going, because he had the position."

"I stayed by his feet when the emergency team arrived," noted Welsh. "The hospital people just started doing their thing. Dr. Robinson was a true professional. I could sense the personal control in his voice. He was concerned, but he had to keep the rest of the team going," said Welsh. "I rode in the back of the ambulance to the hospital, helping where I could. White sneezed, and Captain Robinson was ecstatic."

"By starting the CPR immediately, these men helped save White's brain as well as his life," said Dr. Robinson. "CPR is an important and necessary tool. A person needs to receive CPR within four minutes of a cardiac arrest to prevent brain damage and help save a life," said the doctor.

"If they didn't have the program (CPR training) I might not be here today," said White, now at home and doing well. "If the two men hadn't come at the precise time they did, I know I would have died. I think everyone should know CPR. You never know where it will be needed."

Although Sergeant Balsinger had gone through the CPR course he said he never thought he was capable of doing it. "I was bogged. I hesitated for a moment when I saw everyone else leaving. For one instant, I wanted to go right behind them. Something pushed me into doing it. Thank God I was there."

"It wasn't the same as practicing on a dummy or watching it on television. I was surprised how fast color rose once CPR was started. You could see it coming back to his face," said Balsinger.

Thanks to the quick thinking and professional CPR training these men received, White is alive today. CPR is a skill that may be necessary at any time. It was a skill for which Mrs. White expressed her appreciation in letters of thanks to the men who helped save her husband's life.

ADVISORY GROUP MEETS—Members of a volunteer advisory group for the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service were on the Mississippi State University campus recently to review progress and look at future programs conducted by Extension. Among those attending the meeting at the W. M. Rost Extension Center from Hancock County were Darlene L. Underwood, left, Extension home economist, and Gloria Bull of Diamondhead, County Extension Advisory Council secretary. About 300 volunteer leaders and Extension workers from all 82 counties were on hand for the meeting. The volunteer concept is being emphasized by the Extension Service in forming advisory groups at the local level to help plan and carry out Extension educational programs.

Federal funding okayed for handicapped education

The Mississippi State Department of Education has received approval of its three-year plan stating how it will continue to comply with the Education of All Handicapped Children Act (P.L. 94-142).

Approval of this plan means that $11,646,101 is being made available to the department and local school districts to aid in the education of handicapped students. State Superintendent of Education C.E. Holladay reported.

"The grant is for Fiscal Year 1984 and amounts to more than $236 per child based on the official Dec. 1, 1982 count of handicapped children being served in public school special education programs in Mississippi," he said.

Although state and local funds provide most of the support for education of exceptional children, federal funds help to pay for supervision, evaluation, specialized equipment and materials, and other expenses involved in identifying and educating handicapped children.

School district personnel throughout the state are continuing efforts to find and evaluate handicapped children.

"Anyone knowing a handicapped child who is not in school, or suspecting that a school-age child has an undetected handicap that is causing him or her to fail in school, may refer this child to the school district Child Finder," Holladay said.

Individuals who do not know how to contact their local school personnel in charge of Child Find may call the State Department of Education, Special Education Section, 359-3490.

Local skin care salon pampers brides-to-be

WEDDING DAY PREPARATION—Prior to donning her wedding gown, bride-to-be Kim Breland, seated, receives a manicure from Just for You employee Modonna Rauxet while

ByNAN EHRBRIGHT
Mrs. David Strong, known as Kim Breland until her wedding Saturday, Nov. 12, took full advantage of 'her' day for a thorough pampering at Just for You.

Kim was the first bride to use the special service offered by Just for You, a Bay St. Louis salon which Fran and Joe Kersanac opened in August.

This service, called wedding party booking, includes facials, makeups, manicures and hairdos for all the women in the wedding party—the bride, bridal attendants and mothers of the bride and groom.

Kim arrived at the salon in Shieldsborough Square at noon Saturday, and stayed until limousines arrived about 5:30 p.m. to whisk her and the other female members of the wedding party to First Baptist Church for the 6 p.m. wedding.

Kim sat back and relaxed while Mrs. Kersanac and her assistant Modonna Rauxet gave her a facial and a manicure.

Then she went next door to Trend Setters to have her hair done.

Trend Setters is owned by Teresa Arnold and Sylvia Quick.

The two salons coordinate their calendars so that their customers may take advantage of services of both shops in one trip.

An inside connecting door between the two salons provides convenience and privacy.

As the afternoon progressed, other members of the party arrived, one or two at a time.

Kim's maid of honor, three bridesmaids and junior bridesmaid joined her first.

Kim's mother, Mrs. Larry E. Breland, and David's mother, Mrs. Raymond J. Strong, both of Bay St. Louis, arrived about 3:00 p.m.

The last member of the group, the flower girl, came last, after spending the afternoon napping.

The party enjoyed champagne and appetizers, relaxing as they had their makeup done for them.

Finally, they all dressed together and received final makeup touches.

Just for You specializes in skin care.

Fran Kersanac took more than 70 hours of training in New Orleans to learn about skin care products, the nature of the skin, skin diseases and allergies before she and her husband opened their salon.

Other staff were trained by Mrs. Kersanac.

The salon takes a 'clinical' approach to skin care, she says.

"We concentrate on the skin itself and getting it into proper condition so that cosmetics serve as an enhancement, not a coverup."

The salon uses a five-diopter magnifier for skin analysis, and recommends that clients see a dermatologist if they have problems that need special attention.

Just for You also does 'makeovers,' teaching customers proper makeup application based on size and shape of face, skin and hair color and condition of skin.

Future plans include expansion of the salon so that Just for You can also offer massages.

TRAFFIC PATTERNS
QUESTION: I know that a home with well located rooms and good access is appealing when you are trying to sell.

Has there been much research done on room layout and if so, what is the best traffic pattern you can have in your home? J. P. Jackson ANSWER: Dear J.P.: Good traffic patterns are very important in a home just as they are in a retail store or office building. While opinions vary greatly as to the "best" layout, here are a few tips that will help you select or design a home with good traffic flow patterns.

Experts suggest that your main entrance should lead people directly into the living room and be easily accessible from the driveway or street. There should be no doubt as to where the main entrance is and you certainly do not want your guest lost outside your house trying to figure out how to get inside.

A separate family entrance with a sheltered walkway leading to the driveway is also desirable. This entrance can be used for bringing in groceries and wet or muddy children. Such as "back" entrance should not be confused with the main entrance.

The room arrangement of the house should allow you to go from any room to any other room without passing through a third room. Houses which do not have this feature suffer from functional obsolescence and are worth less than the normal house which does not suffer from this drawback. The living room should be isolated from the normal traffic flow of the house to permit undisturbed conversation or entertainment.

The kitchen is the heart of the house and should be central to all areas of the house. Many builders and designers feel that it is impossible to design a kitchen that is too big. Finally, routes between all rooms in the house and the outdoor areas should be short and direct.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 286, University, MS 38677.

Bay Baptists plan three-day renewal

Members of the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis will participate in a 'renewal of their Christian commitments' through a three-day Lay Renewal Weekend from 6 p.m. Friday until noon Sunday.

Baptists will study together, pray together, and learn in small group sessions as well as meetings of all those involved.

People from several other cities in Mississippi as well as from other states will come for the weekend to share testimonies. They will be housed by members of the local church.

The kick-off event is a supper in Fellowship Hall at the church Friday evening, a potluck meal with members of the congregation supplying dishes of their choosing.

Group sessions involving prayer and study and teas at various homes as well as a church-wide meal at the noon hour at the church are scheduled Saturday.

Youth of the church will be involved in their own study groups and prayer sessions, joined by teens from around the state.

All are welcome to attend. For information call the church office.

The renewal will be preceded by a 24-hour prayer vigil.

PRIMARY PRESENTATION

By Robin Sones

Children of the Waveland Ward Primary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will present a special genealogy program during the regularly scheduled sacrament meeting on Sunday at 9 a.m. in the chapel on McLaurin Street.

The program is to teach others the importance of knowing about their ancestors. The children will tell about their ancestors and sing songs about genealogy. Primary Presentations are conducted annually to the congregation.

With a different theme each year, the children enrich their knowledge of gospel principles while preparing the program for presentation.

Anyone interested will be welcomed to join the congregation in viewing the program on Sunday.

Tennessee educator to keynote Trinity conference

The Rev. Dr. Herbert B. Barks, president of The Baylor School in Chattanooga, Tenn., will be the keynote speaker at the first annual Christianity For A Better Life Conference at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian Saturday from 6-9:30 p.m.

The event continues Sunday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Barks' talk, entitled "The Formula Speakers," is about living in the late 20th Century and the nuclear age. He will discuss problems that the Christian needs to confront.

Barks also will hold a workshop on "The Church Today," and share with the participants his hopes and concerns about the organized church as he has experienced it. He will tell what he sees the church facing in the years ahead.

Friends of Trinity Episcopal Church are invited by Rector H. McDonald Morse Jr. to attend and explore the implications of the promise of Jesus the Christ, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

There is a $10 per person registration fee which includes all speeches, workshops, a Friday night supper and a Saturday breakfast and lunch.

Coca Cola retains unblemished record in Bay Area soccer play

In Bay Area Soccer weekend action, there were no surprises in the Under-4 Division as Gateway Body Shop swept by Hancock Bank 5-0 and Coca Cola retained its unblemished, unscored upon record with a 4-0 win over Specialty Metal. Nell Frisbie Realtors drew a bye.

In the Under 10 Division there were some mild surprises. The first game was predictable as Lolacano's Health Spa downed Thomas Murphree, DDS, 5-0.

Lolacano's went to Covington that same afternoon to play the Covington Select team, and lost 3-0.

Dillmann Roofing put up a surprisingly stiff fight against McDonald Realty before losing 3-1. In a mild upset Sirloin Stockade defeated Hancock General Hospital 2-0 while fielding only nine players.

In the finale McDonald's Restaurant maintained its unbeaten record with a 3-1 victory over Bernard Construction.

In the Under 12 Division Dental Health Service remained undefeated with a 3-1 decision over Edmond Fahey funeral home which played shorthanded.

Then Pat's Chevron squeaked past Parker's Hardware 1-0 in a real thriller.

Dental Health Clinic on Sunday played an exhibition game against an SMSC Select team, and was only down 1-0 at halftime, but two penalty shots in the second half led the way to a final 4-0 whitewash.

In the Girls Division Sports World ended up with an unscheduled bye when the team from Slidell failed to appear for the game.

Later that afternoon Sea Coast Echo hosted a Covington team.

Unfortunately Sea Coast Echo hurt itself when one of its fullbacks deflected a Covington corner shot into the net. But the home team fought back to earn a tie when Shelly Weidman scored on a through pass from Stacy O'Brien. The Black Tornadoes had no game scheduled.

Sea Coast Echo traveled to Slidell Sunday where they were defeated 6-0.

In the Under 14/16 Division Bay-Waveland Tire put up a stiff defense against Hancock Bank (Select) before tiring under the pressure and dropping 4-0 decision.

On Sunday Hancock Bank (Select) traveled to Picayune for a double header against an Under 16 and an Under 14 team.

In the first game the best play was a crossing pass from John Necaise to Joel Duncan which was headed into the net for the score.

Unfortunately Picayune took advantage of a couple of defensive lapses and breakaways to win the opener 3-2. In the second game again it was defensive lapses that allowed Picayune to come away with a 2-1 victory.

In both games Hancock Bank dominated the play, but was unable to get the ball into the net as shots were fired right at the goalkeeper. Also on Sunday Gulf Coast Waste played an SMSC Select team to a 0-0 standoff. Alcan Cable's scheduled game at Slidell was cancelled.

Games scheduled this weekend include:

Under 8 Division
9:30 a.m., Coca Cola (4-0-0) vs. Gateway Body Shop (3-1-0).

11 a.m., Nell Frisbie Realtors (1-2-1) vs. Hancock Bank, (1-2-1).

Under 10 Division
9 a.m., McDonald's Restaurant (4-0-1) vs. Lolacano's Health Club (0-5-0).

10:30 a.m., Thomas Murphree, DDS, (1-3-1) vs. Dillmann Roofing (2-3-0).

Noon, McDonald Realty (1-2-1) vs. Sirloin Stockade (5-4-0).

1:30 p.m., Hancock General Hospital (2-2-1) vs. Bernard Construction (2-2-0).

Under 12 Division
9:30 a.m., Edmond Fahey Funeral Home (0-3-1) vs. Parker's Hardware (1-2-2).

11 a.m., Dental Health Service (3-0-1) vs. Pat's Chevron (2-1-2).

1:30 p.m., Slidell vs. Black Tornadoes.

Under 14/16 Division

9 a.m., Hancock Bank (Select) vs. Gulf Coast Waste.

11 a.m., Slidell vs. Sea Coast Echo.

1:30 p.m., Slidell vs. Sports World.

2 p.m. (Sunday), Slidell vs. Alcan Cable.

USM schedules quarter horse show Friday, Saturday

The show will begin at 8 a.m. at the Equestrian Center located adjacent to Lake Sehay on the USM campus.

Events include: jumping classes, halter classes,

English and Western judged classes and timed classes.

The show is approved by the American Quarter Horse Association and the Mississippi Quarter Horse Association.

Admission for the event is free. For more information contact the USM Intramural office at 266-5406.

Sports Brief

FINAL GAME

Sixteen Golden Eagle seniors will conclude their careers this Saturday against East Carolina. The 16 seniors are strong safety Bud Brown, place-kicker Steve Clark, free safety Mike Schiro, flanker Louis Lipps, fullback Neal Alexander, fullback Clemmon Terrell, cornerback Bruce Miller, linebacker Greg Kelley, center Steve Cannelly, tight end Rod O'Barr, nose guard Gerald Baylin, offensive tackle Glen Howe, offensive tackle Dwayne Massey, punter Larry Boyd, tight end Mike Landrum and tight end Jim Brown.

DEJARNETTE UPDATE

Although USM tallback Sam Dejarnette has been hampered somewhat by an ankle injury the last few games, the Saline, Ala. residented a fine game against Alabama, racking 16 times for 77 yards and a touchdown.

AJAX ATTACK—Bay Junior High Quarterback G. J. (Ajax) Carter (22) breaks into an open space to pick up yardage in the Junior Tigers' 14-3 overtime defeat of Hancock North Central Junior High in the 1983 Mullet Bowl Thursday night at Tiger

Stadium in Bay St. Louis. Tiger Running Back Aaron Whavers (22) moves to clear the way for Carter as Hawk Fullback Terry Kiehm (43) closes in for the defense (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

RUNNING FOR THE HEARTFUND—Joe Esposito, a vegetarian from Long Beach, Calif., N.Y., moved from Hancock County last week on his way from Daytona Beach, Fla., to San Diego, Calif.—his fifth long-distance run to help combat heart disease. Three members of his family have died from heart trouble, and Esposito, who was diagnosed from the Navy years ago for a weakened heart, although he says it "helps his condition." His next run will be on Oct. 21, to the Bay Area Race Heart Fund, and Esposito plans throughout the country to support the fight against heart disease and place donations in the Bay Area. Esposito expects his 2000-mile journey to be completed by November 1984. (Photo by Randy Fawcett)

TIGER TOUCHDOWN—Bay St. Louis Junior High Fullback Brian Lanaux (32) takes a hand off from Quarterback G. J. (Ajax) Carter (14) and crashes into the Hancock North Central end zone in the opening seconds of the second quarter of the 1983 Mullet Bowl at Tiger Stadium Thursday. Lanaux followed with a two-point rush to put the Tigers ahead 8-0. Hawk Split End Delano Lewis (1) defends the goal line. The Junior Tigers took the bowl title in overtime, 14-8. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

BURTON THE BULL—Hard-charging Hancock North Central Fullback Charles Burton races clear of the Bay Junior High secondary to snag a ten-yard touchdown pass from Quarterback Brett Favre with less than five minutes remaining in the fourth quarter of the 1983 Mullet Bowl at Tiger Stadium Thursday. Burton also pushed into the Hawk end zone for two points following the TD reception to tie the ball game at 8-8. The Bay Junior High Tigers took the contest 14-8 in overtime play after Tiger Quarterback Quentin Bell (10) scored on a keeper. Tiger Wingback Glen Rose intercepted a Hawk overtime pass to end the contest. (Echo Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

USM closes against East Carolina

Versatile Louis Lipps and place-kicker Steve Clark will draw a lot of attention from University of Southern Mississippi fans when the Golden Eagles host the East Carolina University Pirates Saturday night, Nov. 19, in the regular season finale for the two powerful Southern independents that have identical 7-3 records.

Lipps could become USM's all-time leading pass receiver by catching seven against the Pirates. Six would tie the school's career record of 94, set by talented Billy Mikel in the 1968-70 era.

Lipps, a 5-11, 189-pound senior out of Reserve, La., also has a shot at setting a new standard for yards gained on pass receptions. He's 101 yards shy of the all-time high of 1,542 yards set by Cliff Coggin in 1948-49.

This year Lipps has caught a career high 39 passes for 764 yards.

He also ranks second in career punt returns in the categories of number returned (72) and yards returned (787).

His average of 10.9 yards per runback is sixth best in USM history.

Clark, who had 10 points in last week's 28-16 loss to nationally-ranked Alabama, will add to personal and school records each time he scores points by field goals or extra point.

Eleven points against ECU would move Clark past ex-star Bubba Phillips into second place on the all-time scoring charts. Sammy Winder is the all-time leader with 234 points. Phillips is second with 216 and Clark third with 206.

Clark owns USM marks for most field goals made in a season (17), most field goals made in a career, most extra points attempted in a career (93) and most extra points made in a career (89). One more field goal attempt would move him into a tie with Ray Guy, whose 59 attempts is the all-time high.

East Carolina will pose real problems for the Eagles. ECU beat Missouri 13-6, came within a point (47-46) of Florida State, lost to Florida by seven (24-17) and lost to Miami by five points (12-7).

Saturday night will be group night at USM's Roberts Stadium. Persons buying eight or more tickets will pay $5 per ticket as compared to $10 each on the normal scale. Kickoff is 7 p.m.

KICKOFF RETURN

Freshman tailback Vincent Alexander's 96-yard kickoff return against Alabama was the fourth longest in USM history.

The only longer kickoff returns by Eagle players were a 103-yarder by Bubba Phillips against Southeastern Louisiana in 1948, a 100-yarder by Herman Nall against Mississippi State in 1964 and a 99-yarder by Sam Dejanette in 1982 against Tulane.

FISHIN' TIPS

from... Tom Mann

QUESTIONS FROM THE MAIL BAG

DEAR TOM: I want to take my grandson fishing for the first time. What do you suggest?—Grandad Brad HELLO GRANDAD: I suggest you get him a cane pole, bobber, monofilament line, No. 4 Aberdeen hook, and some split shot. A can of worms for bait will do it, and ask questions to find where the nearest bluegill or catfish hole is. Be sure to keep his first fish, no matter how small. It's special to him.

MISTER MANN: I can't seem to get any distance casting a plug with my spinning reel. Got any hints?—Shorty Carter HELLO SHORTY: If your line is too heavy for the weight of the lure, if there is too little line on your reel spool, or if the line on your reel is twisted, all these can ruin your distance. Have a good service man check your reel.

HELLO TOM: Is it true that northern pike will not bite when they are losing their teeth each season?—Elton Eizer

HELLO ETON: Pike do not lose their teeth seasonally and when they break one off nature later replaces it. When pike aren't biting some fishermen claim it's because of shedding teeth.

DEAR MR. MANN: I need a large magnet to retrieve a lost rod and reel. Where can I get one?—Happy Harry HELLO HARRY: Am I right? I have a magnetic personality but I can't stay under water that long. I suggest you try a surplus store, but if your reel is made of aluminum it won't work.

TOMBO: What is the best bait for catfish, the very best bait?—Likesta Eatum

HELLO EATUM: Well, I've got to suggest two very best catfish baits because chicken livers and live shrimp are a tossup. DEAR TOM: It's obvious from your writings and lectures you never bank fish. You're missing a lot of fun.—Cane Pater

DEAR CANE: I used to in my younger days. But I can cover so much more water and find so many more fish in a day's time with the mobility of a boat and motor.

Soccer clinic to feature titlist Kyle Rote Jr.

Kyle Rote Jr., the only native American to win the North American Soccer League scoring title, will highlight the Mississippi Coca-Cola All-Star Soccer Clinic Dec. 3 in Clinton.

The clinic includes a two-hour morning session open only to coaches of college, high school, junior high, youth and adult soccer teams, and a three-hour afternoon session

Rote and the professional soccer players.

Registration for coaches is $5 prior to Nov. 25 and $6 after that date. Youth players will be charged $1 for the afternoon session.

There is registration fee for members of the Mississippi Association of Coaches.

The clinic will be conducted in the A.E. Wood Coliseum on the campus of Mississippi Col-

TEMPORARY SAVE—Bay High Quarterback David McIver (10) moves in with Tiger Eddie Nelson (obscured by McIver) to block a field goal attempt by Raleigh Quarterback Mart Chandler (10) during fourth quarter action in the 1983 Wendal Ladner Bowl at Hawk Stadium in White Cypress. Nelson's block saved the Tiger's 14-12 lead at that point, but Raleigh eventually took the bowl title 20-14 with a touchdown in the closing minutes of the Saturday night contest. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez) for both coaches and players who are at least 12 years old. During the morning session Rote and members of the Memphis Americans professional soccer team, will discuss modern coaching methods. Aspects of soccer, including fitness, technical, tactical and psychological, will also be addressed. The afternoon session will include demonstrations by lege in Clinton.

Sessions begin at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Sponsors for the clinic include the Mississippi Association of Coaches and the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

For more information, write Governor's Council, Suite 450, 723 North President, Jackson, Ms 39201, or call 354-6344.

Baseball coach reports good fall season at PRC

Pearl River College has had a good fall baseball season, according to head coach Ned Eades.

The Wildcats have played double headers against University of New Orleans, Southeastern Louisiana University, Louisiana State University, William Carey College, and the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Scrimmaging these senior colleges helps to mature our freshman players," said Eades, who has led his Wildcats to more than 60 regular season wins over the past two years.

"It helps us to play better as a team and it helps me find out who can play next spring and who is still a year away."

Eades said his 1983-84 Wildcats have more depth than they had the last two years. "We have more depth in the pitching department, and I believe we will be better defensively," Eades said. "But we will not be as powerful at the plate."

Last year the Wildcats hit home runs and batted at a .351 pace, good enough for ninth place in the nation. Eades said his team this year is as good a hitting team, but probably will not hit as many round trippers as last spring.

Wildcat players who had a good fall season included pitchers, Scotty Stanley, Jim Spiguardi, Tracy Stiglets and Gus Airne and infielders Jim Murphy, Brandy Webb, Mike Summers, Troy Tallo, Kyle Wiley, Mark Lowery, Kelly Jones and Willie Perry.

Outfielders with good fall performances included Pat Behne, Steve Seid, Richard Ellis, Terry Scott, Johnny Vampas, Nate McKenzie and Brian Arcement.

The Wildcats will play a 65-game spring schedule including four triple headers, a new five-game series with East Mississippi and a four-game series with Hinds Junior College.

The baseball team and the PRC Lady Wildcat and Wildcat basketball teams will raffie off a new 1984 Datsun Maxima at halftime at a PRC-Delgado basketball game Friday, Dec. 9.

State eyes season attendance record in Golden Egg Bowl

Call it the Golden Egg Bowl, Mississippi State-Ole Miss, the Magnolia State Bowl, a crucial Southeastern Conference clash, or anything one wishes, but Saturday's State-UM football battle is expected to be another classic Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in Jackson.

The annual contest in Mississippi Memorial Stadium attracts a great deal of attention and developments last week should give the contest an added flair.

Mississippi State uncorked 479 yards in total offense to down LSU at Baton Rouge 45-28 while the Rebels upended Tennessee in league play at Knoxville by a 13-10 count.

Saturday's contest will be the highlight of a light conference card and will determine where the Bulldogs (3-7 overall, 1-4 in the SEC) and Rebels (5-5 overall, 3-2 in the league) will rank in the standings after the final games played on Dec. 3.

It will match two teams with contrasting offenses as the Bulldogs work with the triple option concept while the Rebels are a multiple formation team with the basic set being the "I" or split backfields.

MSU quarterback John Bond is the all-time top "trigrerman" for Bulldog offenses and will be bidding to move as high as second or third in SEC career total offense in the contest.

Bond's 316-yard night (158 rushing on 21 carries and 7-for-11 aerial artistry for 158 yards) accounted for four rushing touchdowns, tying the modern MSU record held by five other players, while he also connected with fleet Danny Knight for a 72-yard touchdown toss.

Bond's performance pushed his within 154 yards of passing Auburn's Pat Sullivan (1968-70) for second place in the SEC total offense parade for a career as Bond has now compiled 6,690 yards. Sullivan notched 6,843 yards at Auburn and trails Florida's John Reeves (7,213 yards from 1969-71).

Mississippi, on the other hand, has been propelled lately by the steady hand of quarterback Kelly Powell as the Rebels have rolled to four straight wins. Tailback Buford McGee is a solid rusher-receiver combination with over 500 net yards via the infantry route and 32 pass receptions.

State and UM will be playing for the 80th time in history as the Rebels hold a 44-29-6 edge. State won 27-10 in Jackson last year to even the series officially there at 11-11. MSU holds a 13-9 edge on the scoreboard in games played in the capital, but NCAA action negated two of the victories.

Coach Emory Ballard's Bulldogs hope to end the season in a fashion similar to '82 when they captured back-to-back conference victories over LSU and Mississippi to close at 5-6. At one point this fall State played six teams which have been ranked as high as 11th nationally in the AP poll over a span of seven weeks.

Games Notes—Both teams are coming off important Southeastern Conference road victories. The Bulldogs enter the season finale with a 3-7 mark overall and 1-4 SEC worksheet after upending LSU 45-28 at Baton Rouge, La.

Mississippi is 5-5 in all games and 3-2 in league contests after downing Tennessee 13-10 at Knoxville. Coach Emory Ballard of the Bulldogs, ranked 17th in the Division I Coaches Top 20, is 76-45 in his 12th campaign as a head coach and 28-28 for five years at State. UM Coach Billy Brewer is 62-44-3 in his 10th year as a college head coach and 5-5 in his first season with the Rebels.

Series Notes—The annual "Golden Egg Classic," so-called because the teams have played for a gold-plated, football-shaped trophy known as the Golden Egg since 1927, is one of the South's oldest and most colorful college rivalries.

ETV Brief

CARNEGIE REPORT
"High Schools," a one-hour documentary based on the 1983 Carnegie Report on the American High School, offers a concentrated, firsthand experience of the everyday realities of life in an American public high school.

The film can be seen at 9 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 30, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The widely discussed report by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, upon which the film is based, considers virtually every aspect of the secondary educational process. Within the comprehensive plan it outlines, Dr. Ernest Boyer, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, gives top priority to four objectives: the mastery of English, a core curriculum with a global view, better working conditions for teachers, and a service requirement, involving students in volunteer work in the community or at school.

Vignettes from classrooms and corridors, school offices and after-school jobs—laced with candid comments by teachers, students and principals—dramatize the problems of public secondary education today. In real-life interaction between exceptional teachers and students, "High Schools" also suggests possible routes toward improving the nation's troubled secondary schools.

The film was made by seven urban and suburban high schools in Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey and Maryland.

POINT OF LAW

Mississippi State Bar

Q: There is a company which owes my company money and they are declaring bankruptcy. Is there any way I can get my money back? Do I need to get on a list?

A: If you have a claim secured with collateral, you will either get the return of the collateral or your money back at least the extent of the value of the collateral. If you have an unsecured claim, it will be dependent on the type of bankruptcy which is filed. You will be notified of the bankruptcy by communication from the bankruptcy court. At that time you can contact the bankruptcy trustee, or the debtor in possession as listed on the notice from the bankruptcy court. You may be required to file a proof of claim to collect your money.

St. Clare students display athletic skills at recent Field Day

Fourth graders engage in a stilt race.

An old-fashioned rock-and-roll is performed by the second graders.

Participants gather for St. Clare Junior Field Day Assembly.

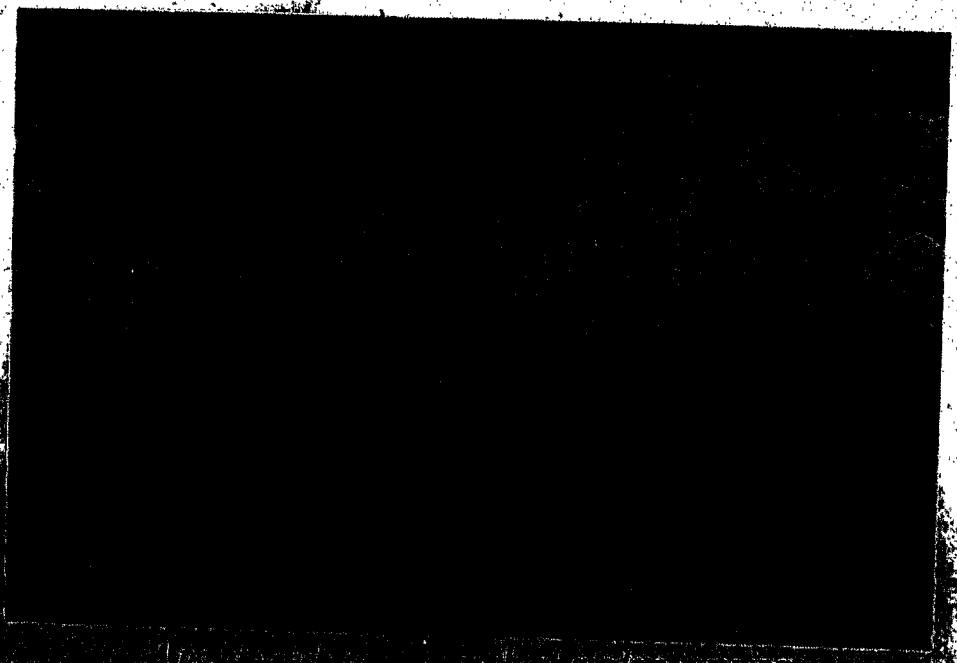

First graders make an 'octopus' garden.

Fourth graders 'hang their wash.'

The kindergarten's marching band performs.

Third graders compete in a soap box derby.

teacher, June Dearman. The letter from President Reagan, dated May 26, 1983, answered a letter the class sent him when he proclaimed the Year of the Bible, telling him the class was praying for him and for the country. (Staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Mile Overstreet, Ocean Springs; and Christopher Sandifer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Sandifer, Pass Christian. The Martha Guild has an ongoing scholarship program for eligible candidates on a coast wide, non-denominational basis. Students who wish to be considered should contact Peter Psikogios, headmaster of Coast Episcopal, at 452-9442 in the early spring. Other members of the Martha Guild Scholarship Committee are Mrs. Thomas Shellnut, Mrs. Jerry Fitzpatrick, and Mrs. James H. Drury.

News Briefs

FISH MOLARS

There are fish in Amazon rivers that have developed teeth with molars strong enough to crush hard nuts, says International Wildlife magazine. They come in handy each year when the fish swim into flooded Amazon forests searching for seeds and fruit that drop from trees. Without this important source of food, the fish would probably die from lack of nutrients.

GOOD GROOMING

Large birds may have as many as 25,000 feathers, reports National Wildlife magazine. Each feather contributes to the streamlining of its body and each, from time to time, must be preened to be kept in good shape.

Application deadline nears for USM gifted program

Insects, E.T., the environment and computers are some of the topics offered in the University of Southern Mississippi's Saturday Gifted Studies Program, Jan. 21-March 10.

The application deadline is Nov. 30 for this program designed to meet the unique needs of gifted students in grades K-12.

Emphasis is placed on individual participation in areas which provide in-depth analysis of specific topics in small group activities, according to Dr. Frances Karnes, director of the Center for Gifted Studies.

"Up, Up, and Away with Books," will introduce students in kindergarten and the first grade to the best of the literary greats. The students will also create their own books. "It's a Small World After All," for the same group, explores the world of insects: their structure, lifecycle and behavior.

Students in grades 2-3 will take a tour of the solar system and the universe with E.T. in "Travelling with E.T." The same group will also analyze the interaction of man, animals and plants in the environment in "Man and Nature."

Inventions and environmental solutions will be discussed by fourth, fifth and sixth graders. "The World of Inventing" will allow the participants to create their own new machines and devices. "Anticipating the 21st Century: Environmental Solutions" will develop creative problem solving in a study of present and future ecological systems and man's effect on them.

Students in grades 7-12 will have the choice of enrolling in a study of psychology or a computer science course tailored to each student's knowledge of computers.

"Psychology: Exploring Ourselves and Why We Do What We Do," will introduce the junior high school students to such topics as development, personality, intelligence and socialization. Application to their daily lives will be explored through participation in self-awareness activities.

Students taking computer science can choose between an introduction to microcomputers or an advanced computer science course. Topics in the introductory course include programming, hardware and computer graphics. Advanced programming concepts such as two-dimensional arrays, file manipulations and color computer graphics will be taught in the second class. Both classes will utilize equipment in the USM Department of Computer Science.

In the Saturday program, qualified teachers and supervisors will be with students at all times. Instructional activities will be conducted in classrooms and laboratories at USM.

For additional information about requirements for entry, contact Dr. Frances Karnes, Center for Gifted Studies, Southern Station Box 8207, Hattiesburg, MS 39401.

Centsable Changes Save Money & Add Comfort.

The Heat and Cool Pump is One Centsable Change.

Tom and Lyn Turner were willing to go along with the idea. They didn't really believe us when we said a Heat & Cool pump would save them money and keep them comfortable winter in, summer out. It was hard to believe that a simple change like that could make a real difference. But they listened to what Mississippi Power had to say.

See, during the winter there's always some heat in the air. The Heat & Cool pump moves this heat inside to warm your home. And during the summer the Heat & Cool pump automatically reverses this process to cool your home by removing heat and moisture from the inside.

But, as Tom and Lyn Turner found out, you don't have to understand it to appreciate it. The savings on your monthly electrical bill will be reason enough. Let Mississippi Power make the difference. For you.

B.F. Skinner techniques used in Hancock schools

By NAN PATTON EHRRBRIGHT
Hancock County School District has 17 programs that serve 220 special education students and 22 gifted and talented, according to Mrs. Jeannette Handshoe, special education coordinator.

The district has begun screening to identify other students eligible for these programs, she says.

Gulfview Elementary has three classes for learning disabled (LD), one class for emotionally handicapped, and one class that includes developmentally-delayed children aged 5-7 and pre-school handicapped aged 3-5.

A speech pathologist at Gulfview provides services for all students in the southern end of the county.

Programs at C.B. Murphy Elementary include one class for educable mentally retarded (EMR) and one for learning disabled.

At the Hancock North Central complex, the elementary school has one class for educable mentally retarded, one class for trainable mentally retarded and two LD classes.

The gifted/talented program is also located at Hancock Elementary.

The junior high school has one LD class and one EMR class.

The senior high school has two LD classes and one EMR class.

A speech pathologist at the high school serves all Hancock North Central students, as does the part-time psychologist, who tests the children for intellectual capability.

All the special education students, including the gifted, have been carefully tested to make sure that the programs they enter meet their needs and that they are eligible for help.

Grades on class work, poor or good, are not sufficient evidence of eligibility, Superintendent Terry Randolph says.

He points out that many students who continually earn A's in class may be bright but not classifiable as gifted or talented, while C or even D students may be intellectually superior and eligible for gifted programs.

Handshoe agrees, noting that gifted and talented children need to be challenged. Otherwise, they soon become bored, and "when boredom sets in, behavior problems take over."

Special education students must meet specific criteria established by the Mississippi Department of Education.

When a regular classroom teacher feels that a child needs placement in a special education program, he or she must complete a teacher narrative and, for students who seem to be emotionally handicapped, maintain a behavior log—usually for a period of at least six weeks.

The narrative and log are submitted to a Local Survey Committee for review.

Then an intervention program is designed to modify the child's inappropriate behavior in the regular classroom.

If that intervention program does not succeed, the child is referred for evaluation and receives a complete physical checkup, including hearing and vision, and also receives a mental and emotional examination.

After need and eligibility have been established, the child is placed in the appropriate program.

Developmentally-delayed children are behind their peers in language acquisition, motor skills or intellectual function. Many, Handshoe says, have more than one problem, and most also exhibit inappropriate behaviors.

Because there are so few developmentally-delayed students in Hancock County schools, the district has entered into a consortium agreement with Bay St. Louis School District to cooperate in providing services.

Hancock County School District will serve as fiscal agent. Funds will be distributed in both school districts on a per-pupil basis.

Educable mentally retarded (EMR) students have academic problems in the classroom, particularly with abstract thinking, but with special help can become self-sufficient and self-supporting.

Trainable mentally retarded (TMR) will never be able to function independently, Handshoe says. Programs are designed to teach them the skills to function in a sheltered environment so that they need not be institutionalized.

Learning-disabled children have normal intellectual ability but have difficulty learning.

"We know what the problem isn't for learning disabled," Handshoe says, "not what it is. It isn't the result of visual, auditory, environmental or emotional difficulties. And learning-disabled children aren't retarded."

"For some reason we have not yet discovered, the learning disabled just don't process information the same way other people do," she says.

To be classified as learning disabled, a child must have a significant discrepancy between achievement and ability.

There must be one standard deviation (15 points) between the child's achievement and intelligence quotient (IQ) in order for the child to qualify for an LD program.

Emotionally-handicapped students, Handshoe says, must be severely disturbed, with a "moderate to marked reduction in behavioral freedom which affects their educational and social experiences."

Problems of the emotionally-handicapped child include:

- inability to learn;
- inability to build or maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships;
- immature or inappropriate behaviors.

Some of these children are withdrawn, Handshoe says; others are aggressive.

The special education programs in Hancock County stress student responsibility.

A special ed classroom teacher until she became program coordinator on July 1, Handshoe believes that many children have "learned" maladaptive behaviors.

Those few children whose problems are organically caused are treated with medication, but all the emotionally-handicapped students are undergoing the behavior modification techniques that Handshoe has introduced into the special education programs.

Two strategies are used: positive reinforcement and "time out."

For positive reinforcement, each student is evaluated after each period of special education activity.

Positive behavior is rewarded with points, and students must earn a certain number of points before they can return to their regular classrooms from the special education class.

"Time out" gives students an opportunity to regain control of themselves when they become upset or aggressive.

The "time out" room contains about 16 square feet. It is part of the facility for the emotionally-handicapped located in a house across the street from Gulfview Elementary.

Because Mississippi law prohibits the segregation of special education students from regular classroom students, facilities for the special education classes must also be used for regular classes.

At Gulfview, the house is also used for regular study halls.

Handshoe emphasizes that the "time out" room is used only when a child's behavior has escalated to a point when he may be dangerous to himself or others.

Children are returned to class from the "time out" room as soon as they calm down.

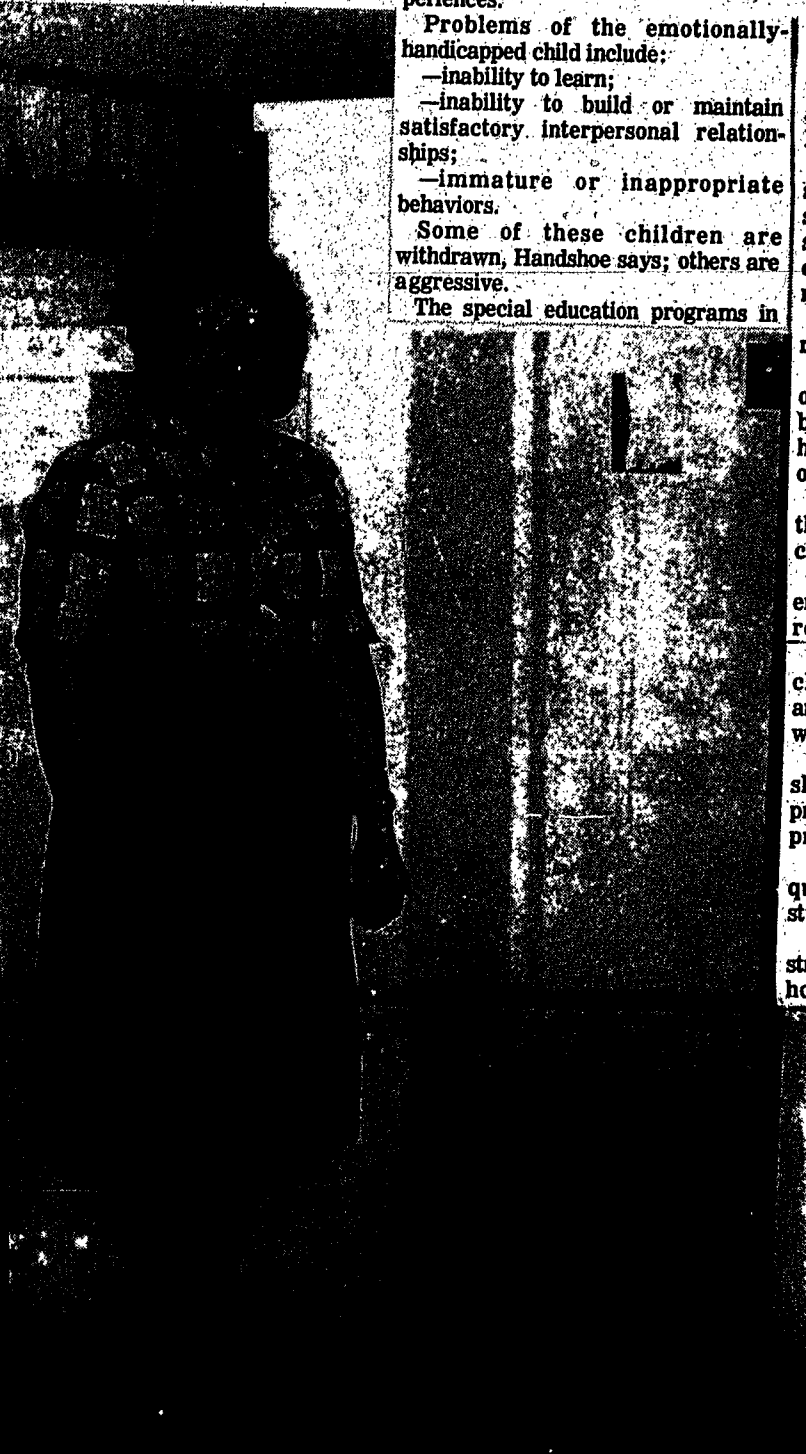

The "time out" room is used only for emotionally-handicapped and not for regular classroom students.

All children in the "time out" room are closely monitored. Either a teacher or an aide observes them at all times, and writes down everything they do or say.

When the children come out, Handshoe says, they must identify their inappropriate behavior and offer appropriate alternatives.

Handshoe says the "time out" technique works, and that the parents of the students are supportive of the program.

Many are learning to use the same strategies to help their children at home.

MRS. JEANNETTE HANDSHOE, special education coordinator for Hancock County School District, stands outside the "time out" room for emotionally-handicapped students. The 16-square-foot room is carpeted, decorated with decals and has a screened top to provide light and ventilation. It is used only when children become so upset that they pose a danger to themselves or others. Children inside the room are monitored at all times. (Staff photo by Nan Patton Ehrbright)

Mississippi Brownbuilder Charlotte Schmitz: One of the best

Charlotte Schmitz, from Hattiesburg, is helping build local economic growth and progress as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

Charlotte joined Brown & Root in 1982 as secretary to the administrative manager on a major construction project. She and her husband, Don, live in Runnelstown and have two children. Their son, Jeff, is an electrician helper with Brown & Root. A member of the Runnelstown Volunteer Fire Department Ladies' Auxiliary, Charlotte enjoys gardening, painting and crocheting on the weekends.

Another thing about Charlotte: she's one of the best. She's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because she knows her job and gets it done right.

Open shop, open opportunity

Brownbuilders like Charlotte share with all of us a feeling of pride in individual contributions to the total success of every project on which we work. Brown & Root's open shop policy means open opportunity for people to do their best. We offer training in valuable skills and reward good work with advancement that's based on the individual's ability and merit. That way we get the best people at every job level.

The community benefits

Through our local offices, we offer employment to a high percentage of community residents. The dollars they earn circulate locally in sales, savings and taxes, benefiting business and government. The additional skills and experience they acquire are lasting community benefits.

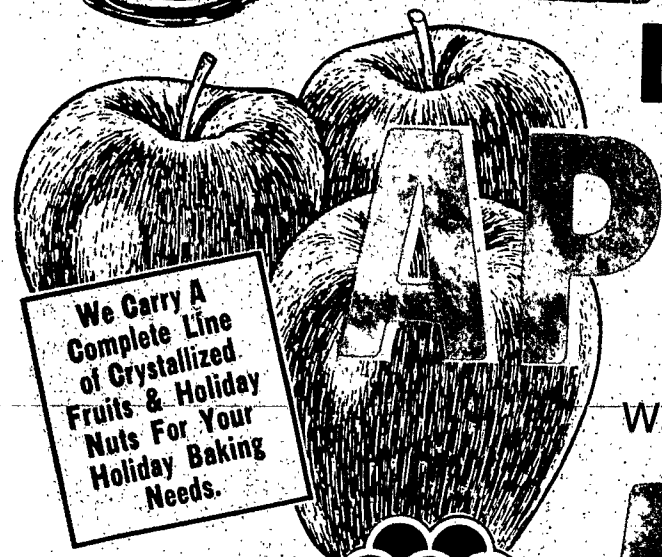

Our standard of quality:
Doing things right the first time.

NOTICE

CITIZENS OF WAVELAND

Beginning around November 14, all sewer lines will be smoke tested throughout the city. This testing will continue until the end of January 1984 or the first part of February.

It is possible, under certain conditions, that some smoke will enter the house through the bathroom, come out of various roof vents, or rise up through the ground.

This situation will only occur when the testing is being performed in the street in front of your house. The smoke should only remain two to three minutes before disappearing.
